Making the wall hanging

Begin by cutting all the pieces of fabric:

Penguins on cream 16 ½" x 10 ½"

Trees on red 16 ½" x 2" (x2) fussy cut to centralise the trees with snow above

Trees on cream 16 ½" x 7"

Trees on red 16 ½" x 7"

White 11" x 5"

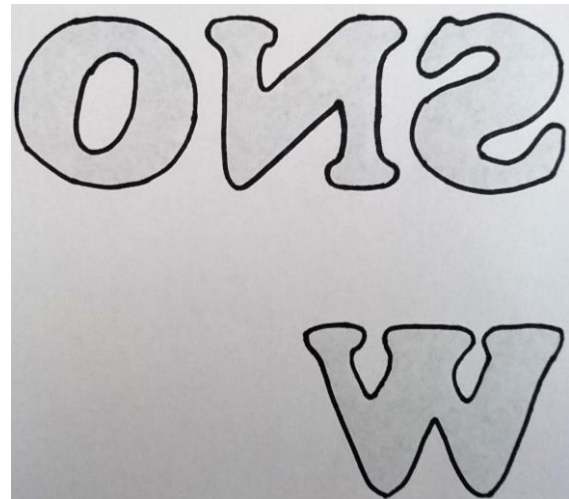

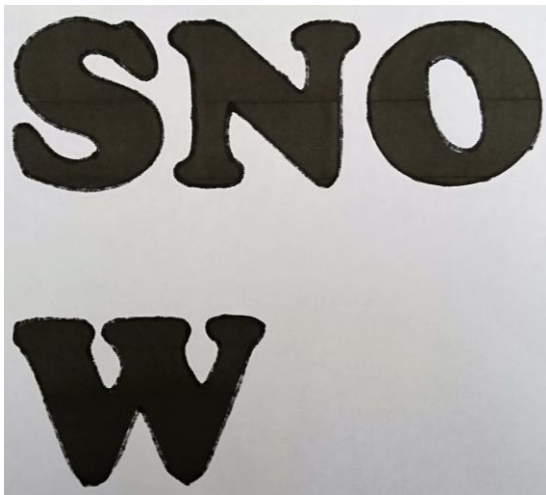

Snowflakes on blue 12" x 5"

Snowflakes on blue 66" x 1 ¼" (join strips at right angles to create the length for the binding)

Let's Begin...

Print off the templates

Reverse the letters from the template by turning the paper faced down and drawing over the letters – holding the paper up to the window can help

Trace the reverse of the letters onto the Bondaweb

Fuse with a dry heat onto the 'Snowflakes on blue' 12" x 5" piece of fabric, and carefully cut out the letters. Fuse the white fabric to the remaining Bondaweb. Peel of the backing paper from the letters and fuse with a dry heat to the white piece of fabric.

Use a heat erasable fabric pen to create a 'snow' bubble around the letters and cut out, peel away the backing paper and fuse to the centre of the 'Penguins on cream' fabric.

Sew the 'trees on red' fabric to the top and bottom of the centre panel, press seams towards the red.

Baste to the wadding

To create the backing, simply sew both the tree fabric together and press seams towards the red fabric, baste the other side of the wadding

Change the foot on machine to a FMQ foot, thread up the silver metallic thread and sew around each of the letters 1/8" from the raw edge, continue around the white fabric.

Pin the ribbon 5 ½" in from each top corner (the ribbon should lay RST towards the quilt)

Add the binding strips all the way around to the front of the quilt, trim away any excess. Press ¼" of the raw edge over, pin and hand sew to the reverse, create neat corners as you sew
